Document...In December, Illinois' budget deficit reached $5.3 billion, about $2 billion short of the general revenue funds required to balance the budget. State law requires that the Governor issue at least a "negative" budget. A negative budget means that the state will have an operating budget deficit but would pay down some of the debt. Unless the law is changed, Illinois will have an operating deficit every year for the next several years. We believe Illinois has a spending problem, not a revenue problem. One of the first fiscal reforms that Governor Bruce Rauner and legislative leaders should pursue is to eliminate waste in state government. When Rauner ran for the governor's office, he was in the forefront of the movement for fiscal reform and his spending priorities as a businessman laid the groundwork for his entire campaign. He turned his spending commitments into a budget plan that is now being enacted into law. Eliminating waste starts with eliminating redundant positions in state government. It is well-known that the Governor's Office has spent one-third of its budget on advertising, including a $60 million statewide television campaign that has been widely criticized as ineffective. Instead of that money, we advocate converting the Governor's Office into a pure policy making office that can focus on improving state services and policy. The second step of cost savings has to be eliminating jobs and privatizing services that are no longer needed or do not add value. Illinois House Speaker Mike Madigan continues to try to give his political allies in state government a leadership role in budget negotiations, instead of working with Governor Rauner. We urge Governor Rauner to carry through on his promise to change the culture of government in Illinois so that legislators are working in a bipartisan fashion and sharing power. Governor Rauner believes in change - and we believe in what has already been achieved. He believes that the time has come for change. This is the Governor's Office's first budget, and we are moving in the right direction. Now it is time to carry through on change. Evaluation of Trifluridine at moderate and supraphysiological concentrations in a human cell line by the dynamic function coupling assay. A previous study demonstrated that trifluridine (FTD) is cytotoxic by inducing apoptosis. The objective of this study was to investigate the effects of FTD at moderate and supraphysiological concentrations

Q: Angular $http with different.json url returns nothing I'm trying to download a file from an external API and I need to specify its path in the url of the $http request, but I can't figure out how to do it. Here's a.json file I get from the API:

[ { "uuid": "48e89731-62dc-40da-83ec-9360d5fb36ae", "title": "File.txt", "hash": "1d66ef5fa8ad2a775b6404ddf94bc4a4", "mime_type":

"application/octet-stream",
"extension": ".txt" } ] And here's my code: var app =
angular.module("logistic", ["app.controllers", "ngCookies"]);
app.controller("Controller", function($scope, $http) { $http.get("/api/files/list.json", { params: { directoryId: "58595" } })
    .success(function(data) { console.log(data); })
    .error(function(error) {

The watermark style, background, opacity, size and position can be customized...Methylgallate-induced mutagenesis in Streptomyces. Streptomyces glaucescens mutant CF5, resistant to 0.1 mg/ml methylgallate (MG), has been investigated for the possible induction of hyper-mutability. Ten liquid culture double selection experiments were conducted. None of these experiments yielded S. glaucescens mutants resistant to higher concentrations of MG than 0.1 mg/ml. A new technique for identification of induced mutants by monitoring growth of the micro-colonies is described. The results are discussed in relation to the mode of action of MG and other antimicrobial flavonoids.
