What scriptures is this mentioned in? I saw a video online that a pierced body looks like sanskrit letter "Y". Is it true? If yes, can someone explain? A: Yes, if a person is pierced with a Pincha nyantra (6 pointed iron) on the body like this, it will look like a Sanskrit letter Y ( ' ' ) and be considered the same as Brahman. But, the job of this 'Y' is not to bring good or bad luck to person. It symbolises he has died and his soul is now in heaven. Some people call the Pincha nyantra (6 pointed iron) as Veshan-nyantra (A nyantra given to an ascetic by divine force), Paramamsa-nyantra (A nyantra to immortalize oneself), Prahasta-nyantra (Nyantra to attain salvation) or Paitika-nyantra (Ancyatra). The Pincha nyantra is unique as it symbolizes divine power and protection and is believed to be used by a guru or a deity/god to protect/protect the devotee from evil. The devotee must keep the Pincha nyantra close to body always. The above words are not from scriptures, but by disciples of Swami-Ramananda who have observed this particular type of charm (amongst others) during his times and wrote it down. It is also mentioned in the book written by Swami-Ramananda. Here are

Microsoft sells Nokia's smartphone business to Foxconn For the price of a Nokia 3310 smartphone, you can now buy a device with Microsoft and Microsoft software inside, so says Microsoft. Microsoft on Wednesday announced it had signed a deal to buy out Nokia's smartphone business, ending a more than 40-year relationship between the two companies. But, in a move with potential far-reaching consequences, Microsoft is giving up the bulk of Nokia's devices and services business in return, selling it to Foxconn. In a press release, Microsoft characterized the deal as the "merger of equals." Nokia, for its part, said it was "saddened" by the "end to an era." Under the terms of the agreement, Nokia sells its devices business, excluding its smartphone business in India, to Microsoft for $7.2 billion. Microsoft also acquires most of Nokia's mapping and location services as well as its services and licensing businesses, which will now form a new division called Nokia Corp. Microsoft will then acquire Nokia's services business, including its patent portfolio, and the devices business will operate independently as a new unit called Nokia Technologies, which will be headed by Rajeev Suri, f30f4ceada
