Renal failure associated with sarcoidosis: a unique entity. A 64-year-old woman presenting with sarcoidosis had cardiac and pulmonary involvement, but no renal abnormalities were demonstrated. Shortly after completion of steroid therapy, she developed acute renal failure with hypokalemia, hypercalcemia, metabolic acidosis and hyperamylasemia. Renal biopsy demonstrated granulomatous interstitial nephritis. Renal failure in patients with sarcoidosis, however, is rare. Causes of renal failure have been considered to be either granulomatous interstitial nephritis or acute tubular necrosis. We propose that this condition is a unique entity, sarcoid nephritis, occurring in some patients with sarcoidosis.

1. Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a laser module and a method for manufacturing the laser module, and more particularly, to a laser module in which a semiconductor laser diode chip is protected by a laser window so that the surface of the laser diode chip is protected and the life of the semiconductor laser diode chip is extended, and a method for manufacturing the laser module.

2. Description of the Related Art At present, a semiconductor laser diode (SLD) is mainly used as an optical source for performing an optical information process in a video disk player, a laser printer, a barcode reader, etc. In order to effectively protect a laser diode, various researches have been conducted for reducing damage to the laser diode caused by mechanical stress and heat when being packaged. However, there is a problem in that it is difficult to meet the demands of protection the laser diode as the size of the laser diode is reduced. As such, a conventional method for improving protection and life of the laser diode was proposed. Such a method is a method
