Continuous calculations were performed using FactSage 6.3 for five excess air ratios (λ) 0.7, 0.9, 1.0, 1.2, and 1.6 at a temperature range of $650 \leq T$ and pressures of 500 and 1000 . Downloads FactSage 6.3 - The FactSage 6.3 Update/Installation program contains the complete 6.3 package of software, databases and documentation. It can be . The FactSage package contains many functions that calculate the equilibrium of a given system in a broad range of thermodynamic conditions. . The software is especially designed to compute the equilibrium of binary and multicomponent systems. By the calculation of the mole fraction of the components at equilibrium, . The software can also calculate the state of the system, the composition of the phases and the mixture enthalpies of the phases. It can predict the, from different phases, the composition of the phases at equilibrium, the system activity of each component, the activity of the system and the activity of each phase. For more details on the functionality of the package please consult the user manual or the supporting documentation. Please also note that the software includes databases with reference data for the thermodynamic properties of all compounds with. The formula of the phase must be selected. The phase will be created with the compounds at the current input data. The system activity will be obtained by summing the activities of the components, where the activity of the compound or phase is taken as the, at a standard pressure and temperature as defined by the user. . FactSage 6.3.2 is a . and is especially designed to perform thermodynamic calculations on isotopic systems. By the calculation of the mole fraction of the isotopes at equilibrium, Factsage can predict the, from different isotopes of the same element, the composition of the isotopes at equilibrium, the composition of the isotopes and the system activity of each isotope. The program can also be used to calculate the isotope fractionation factors (IFs). . Equilibrium calculations were performed using Factsage 6.3.2 for five (excess) air ratios (λ) 0.7, 0.9, 1.0, 1.2, and 1.6 at a temperature range of $650 \leq T$ and pressures of 500 and 1000 . FactSage 6.3.2 is a . and is especially designed to
