To analyze the predictive factors associated with the postoperative mortality of the patients who underwent the Fontan procedure. From March 2001 through March 2005, 40 patients who underwent the Fontan procedure were enrolled. Their clinical records were reviewed retrospectively. The medical records were also reviewed to determine the predictive factors associated with the postoperative mortality of the patients following the Fontan procedure. The postoperative mortality of the patients who underwent the Fontan procedure was 5.7 %.

The patients in whom the diagnosis was made at the age of 2-3 years, those who showed associated congenital anomalies, those with a preoperative tricuspid regurgitation of more than 3, those with a preoperative ventilation support, and those who were in other clinical status were at higher risk of the postoperative mortality following the Fontan procedure.
