Q: Using XDocument in c# I have a XmlDocument which is the input, I'm using XDocument to get an XDocument. The XDocument is output. I use the XPath Expression to parse the elements: XDocument sampleDocument = XDocument.Load(@"\\servername\file.xml"); XElement root = XElement.Load("d:Settings"); XElement settings = (from el in root.Elements("Settings").Elements("SettingsRights") select el).First(); Is this the correct way to get the settings element? A: The XPath you used is not correct. I believe this is how you would write it.
